CENTRAL INTELLIGENCE AGENCY
CENTER! BATH! BESSACE ACENIC

COUNTRY USER (Arctic) SUBJECT Warships near Onega DATE DISTR. NO. OF PAGES 1 DATE OF INFO. PLACE ACQUIRED DATE ACQUIRED DATE ACQUIRED SOURCE EVALUATIONS ARE DEFINITIVE. APPRAISAL OF CONTENT IS TENTATIVE. 1. At 2015 hours on 5 June, two naval vessels and one tug were on a northerly course in a position off Cape Danilov. The larger naval vessel was towing the smaller one; the tug followed behind. The larger naval vessel was about 225-250 feet long, with a raked how and stars with the small even of the raked how and stars with the small vessel was about	OF PAGES 1 JIREMENT NO. RD RENCES JATED Information CONTENT IS TENTATIVE. 25 me tug were on a northerly er naval vessel was towing arger naval vessel was about thout sheer, two guns on the he after edge, a pole mast top the mast, one low funnel	DUNTRY USER (Arctic) REPORT NO. OF PAGES 1 ATE OF INFO. ACE ACQUIRED ACE ACQUIRED ATE ACQUIRED ATE ACQUIRED This is UNEVALUATED Information SOURCE EVALUATIONS ARE DEFINITIVE. AFPRAISAL OF CONTENT IS TENTATIVE. 2 1. At 2015 hours on 5 June, two naval vessels and one tug were on a northerly course in a position off Cape Danliov. The larger naval vessel was about 225-250 feet long, with a raked bow and stern without sheer, two gums on the forecastle, bridge with a break in the seek at the after edge, a pole must close to the bridge, and a cruiser stern. The smaller naval vessel was about 150 feet long with a very slightly elevated forecastle with break in the deck at the bridge, one gum on the forecastle, a pole must with yard just at of the bridge, one gum on the forecastle, a pole must with yard just at of the bridge, one low rectangular funnel three or four meters about 150 feet long with a very slightly elevated forecastle with break in the deck at the bridge, one low rectangular funnel three or four meters about 150 feet long with a very slightly elevated forecastle with break in the deck at the bridge, one low rectangular funnel three or four meters about 150 feet long with a very slightly elevated forecastle with break in the deck at the bridge, one low rectangular funnel three or four meters about 150 feet long stern with 150 feet long as a long of the same type as the larger of the same type as the larger of those described above At 2030 hours GMT on 5 June, 12 naval vessels were on a northerly course at those described above Southern of the vessels were of the same type as the larger of those described above Southern of the vessels were of the same type as the larger of those described above Southern of the vessels were of the same type as the larger of those described above Southern of the vessels were of the same type as the larger of those described above Southern of the vessels were of the same type as the larger of those described above Southern of the vessels were of the same typ	2
DATE DISTR. NO. OF PAGES 1 DATE OF INFO. PLACE ACQUIRED DATE ACQUIRED This is UNEVALUATED Information SOURCE EVALUATIONS ARE DEFINITIVE. APPRAISAL OF CONTENT IS TENTATIVE. 1. At 2015 hours on 5 June, two naval vessels and one tug were on a northerly course in a position off Cape Danilov. The larger naval vessel was towing the smaller one; the tug followed behind. The larger naval vessel was about 225-250 feet long. with a with a position.	DISTR. OF PAGES JIREMENT NO. RD RENCES JATED Information CONTENT IS TENTATIVE. 25 The tug were on a northerly er naval vessel was towing arger naval vessel was about thout sheer, two guns on the he after edge, a pole mast top the mast, one low funnel	DATE DISTR. NO. OF PAGES 1 ATE OF INFO. ACE ACQUIRED ATE ACQUIRED SOURCE EVALUATIONS ARE DEFINITIVE. APPRAISAL OF CONTENT IS TENTATIVE. 2 1. At 2015 hours on 5 June, two naval vessels and one tug were on a northerly course in a position off Cape Danilov. The larger naval vessel was towing the smaller one; the tug followed behind. The larger naval vessel was about 225-250 feet long, with a relad bow and stern without sheer, two guns on the forecastle, bridge with a break in the deek at the after edge, a pole mast with a yard up on the bridge, Decca-like radar atop the mast, one low funnel to be bridge, and a cruiser stern. The smaller naval vessel was about 150 feet long with a very slightly elevated forecastle with heak in the deek at the bridge, one gun on the forecastle, a pole mast with yard just aft of the bridge, one low rectangular funnel three or four meters about the mast, one crane on each side of the stern, and a cruiser stern. At 2240 hours GMF on 4 June, a naval vessel of the same type as the larger of the two described above At 2030 hours GMF on 5 June, 12 naval vessels were on a northerly course at Cape Danilov. Fight of the vessels were of the same type as the larger of those described above. Pour of the vessels were of the same type as the larger of those described above at a speed of about 15 lingts. The forecastle were on a south-southeast course 25X1	2
NO. OF PAGES 1 PLACE ACQUIRED PLACE ACQUIRED DATE ACQUIRED SOURCE EVALUATIONS ARE DEFINITIVE. APPRAISAL OF CONTENT IS TENTATIVE. 1. At 2015 hours on 5 June, two naval vessels and one tug were on a northerly course in a position off Cape Danilov. The larger naval vessel was towing the smaller one; the tug followed behind. The larger naval vessel was about 225-250 feet long, with a position.	OF PAGES 1 JIREMENT NO. RD RENCES JATED Information CONTENT IS TENTATIVE. 25 The tug were on a northerly er naval vessel was towing arger naval vessel was about thout sheer, two guns on the he after edge, a pole mast top the mast, one low funnel	NO. OF PAGES 1 ATE OF INFO. ACE ACQUIRED ATE ACQUIRED ATE ACQUIRED ATE ACQUIRED SOURCE EVALUATIONS ARE DEFINITIVE. APPRAISAL OF CONTENT IS TENTATIVE. 2 1. At 2015 hours on 5 June, two naval vessels and one tug were on a northerly course in a position off Cape Danilov. The larger naval vessel was towing the smaller one; the tug followed behind. The larger naval vessel was about 225-250 feet long, with a raked bow and stern without sheer, two guns on the forecastle, bridge with a break in the deek at the after edge, a pole mast with a yard up on the bridge, Decca-like radar atop the mast, one low funnel close to the bridge, and a cruiser stern. The smaller naval vessel was about 150 feet long with a very slightly elevated forecastle with break in the deck at the bridge, one gun on the forecastle, a pole mast with yard just aft of the bridge, me low rectangular funnel three or four meters abort the mast, one crane on each side of the stern, and a cruiser stern. At 2240 hours GMT on June, a naval vessel of the stern, and a cruiser stern. At 2240 hours GMT on June, a naval vessel of the same type as the larger of the two described above. At 2030 hours GMT on June, 12 naval vessels were on a northerly course at those described above. On 5 June as surfaced submarine was at a great distance off Cape Orlov on a south-southeast course at a speed of about 15 broats. Pour of the vessels were of the same type as the surfaced at a speed of about 15 broats. Pour of the vessels were of the same type as the surfaced at a speed of about 15 broats. Pour of the vessels were of the same type as the surfaced at a speed of about 15 broats. Pour of the vessels were of the same type as the surfaced at a speed of about 15 broats.
PLACE ACQUIRED PLACE ACQUIRED This is UNEVALUATED Information SOurce Evaluations are Definitive. Appraisal of Content is Tentative. 1. At 2015 hours on 5 June, two naval vessels and one tug were on a northerly course in a position off Cape Danilov. The larger naval vessel was towing the smaller one; the tug followed behind. The larger naval vessel was about	me tug were on a northerly er naval vessel was about thout sheer, two guns on the he after edge, a pole mast top the mast, one low funnel	ACE ACQUIRED ACE ACQUIRED ACE ACQUIRED This is UNEVALUATED Information SOURCE EVALUATIONS ARE DEFINITIVE. APPRAISAL OF CONTENT IS TENTATIVE. 2 1. At 2015 hours on 5 June, two naval vessels and one tug were on a northerly course in a position off Cape Danilov. The larger naval vessel was towing the smaller one; the tug followed behind. The larger naval vessel was about 225-250 feet long, with a raked bow and stern without sheer, two guns on the forecastle, bridge with a break in the deek at the after edge, a pole must with a yard up on the bridge, Decca-like radar atop the mast, one low found 150 feet long with a very slightly elevated forecastle with break in the deck at the bridge, one gun on the forecastle, a pole must with yard just aft of the bridge, one gun on the forecastle, a pole must with yard just aft of one crane on each side of the stern, and a cruiser stern. At 2240 hours GMT on 4 June, a naval vessel of the same type as the larger of the same type as the larger of those described above. Four of the vessels were of the same type as the small one described above. Four of the vessels were of the same type as the small one described above. Four of the vessels were of the same type as the small one described above. Four of the vessels were of the same type as the small one described above. Prover of the vessels were of the same type as the small one described above. Prover of the vessels were of the same type as the small one described above. Prover of the vessels were of the same type as the small one described above. Prover of the vessels were of the same type as the small one described above. Prover of the vessels were of the same type as the small one described above. Prover of the vessels were of the same type as the small one described above. Prover of the vessels were of the same type as the small one described above.
PLACE ACQUIRED This is UNEVALUATED Information SOURCE EVALUATIONS ARE DEFINITIVE. APPRAISAL OF CONTENT IS TENTATIVE. 1. At 2015 hours on 5 June, two naval vessels and one tug were on a northerly course in a position off Cape Danilov. The larger naval vessel was towing the smaller one; the tug followed behind. The larger naval vessel was about	me tug were on a northerly er naval vessel was about thout sheer, two guns on the he after edge, a pole mast top the mast, one low funnel	ATE ACQUIRED ATE ACQUIRED ATE ACQUIRED This is UNEVALUATED Information SOURCE EVALUATIONS ARE DEFINITIVE. APPRAISAL OF CONTENT IS TENTATIVE. 2 1. At 2015 hours on 5 June, two naval vessels and one tug were on a northerly course in a position off Cape Danilov. The larger naval vessel was towing the smaller one; the tug followed behind. The larger naval vessel was about forecastle, bridge with a break in the deek at the after edge, a pole must with a yard up on the bridge, Decca-like rader atop the must, one low funnel close to the bridge, and a cruiser stern. The smaller naval vessel was about 150 feet long with a very slightly elevated forecastle with break in the deck at the bridge, one now creame on each side of the stern, and a cruiser stern. At 2240 hours GMT one crame on each side of the stern, and a cruiser stern. At 2240 hours GMT on June, a naval vessel of the same type as the larger of the two described above. At 2030 hours GMT on 5 June, 12 naval vessels were on a northerly course at Cape Danilov. Eight of the vessels were of the same type as the small one described above. Four of the vessels were of the same type as the small one for June as a speed of about 15 hours. The forecastle were on a south-southeast course at a speed of about 15 hours. The forecastle were on a south-southeast course at a speed of about 15 hours. The forecastle were on a south-southeast course.
This is UNEVALUATED Information SOURCE EVALUATIONS ARE DEFINITIVE. APPRAISAL OF CONTENT IS TENTATIVE. 1. At 2015 hours on 5 June, two naval vessels and one tug were on a northerly course in a position off Cape Danilov. The larger naval vessel was towing the smaller one; the tug followed behind. The larger naval vessel was about	DATED Information CONTENT IS TENTATIVE. 25 The tug were on a northerly er naval vessel was towing arger naval vessel was about thout sheer, two guns on the he after edge, a pole mast top the mast, one low funnel	This is UNEVALUATED Information 1. At 2015 hours on 5 June, two naval vessels and one tug were on a northerly course in a position off Cape Danilov. The larger naval vessel was towing the smaller one; the tug followed behind. The larger naval vessel was about 225-250 feet long, with a raked bow and stern without sheer, two guns on the forecastle, bridge with a break in the deck at the after edge, a pole must with a yard up on the bridge, Decca-like radar atop the must, one low funnel close to the bridge, and a cruiser stern. The smaller naval vessel was about at the bridge, one gun on the forecastle, a pole must with break in the deck at the bridge, one gun on the forecastle, a pole must with paral just aft of the bridge, one low rectangular funnel three or four meters abeaft the must, one crane on each side of the stern, and a cruiser stern. At 2240 hours GMT on 4 June, a naval vessel of the stern, and a cruiser stern. At 2240 hours GMT was sighted at Kharlov Island on a 280 course. At 2030 hours GMT on 5 June, 12 naval vessels were on a northerly course at Cape Danilov. Eight of the vessels were of the same type as the larger of the two described above. Four of the vessels were of the same type as the larger of these described above. Four of the vessels were of the same type as the larger of the same type a
1. At 2015 hours on 5 June, two naval vessels and one tug were on a northerly course in a position off Cape Danilov. The larger naval vessel was towing the smaller one; the tug followed behind. The larger naval vessel was about 225-250 feet long, with a wheel behind.	ne tug were on a northerly er naval vessel was towing arger naval vessel was about thout sheer, two guns on the he after edge, a pole mast top the mast, one low funnel	1. At 2015 hours on 5 June, two naval vessels and one tug were on a northerly course in a position off Cape Danilov. The larger naval vessel was towing the smaller one; the tug followed behind. The larger naval vessel was about 225-250 feet long, with a raked bow and stern without sheer, two guns on the forecastle, bridge with a break in the deek at the after edge, a pole must with a yard up on the bridge, Decca-like radar atop the must, one low funnel close to the bridge, and a cruiser stern. The smaller naval vessel was about 150 feet long with a very slightly elevated forecastle with break in the deck at the bridge, one gun on the forecastle, a pole must with yard just aft of the bridge, one low rectangular funnel three or four meters abaft the must, one crane on each side of the stern, and a cruiser stern. At 2240 hours GMT on 4 June, a naval vessel of the same type as the larger of the two described above. At 2030 hours GMT on 5 June, 12 naval vessels were on a northerly course at those described above. Four of the vessels were of the same type as the larger of the same type as the small one 2500 described above. Four of the vessels were of the same type as the larger of the same t
1. At 2015 hours on 5 June, two naval vessels and one tug were on a northerly course in a position off Cape Danilov. The larger naval vessel was towing the smaller one; the tug followed behind. The larger naval vessel was about 225-250 feet long, with a wheel he had a larger naval vessel was about	ne tug were on a northerly er naval vessel was towing arger naval vessel was about thout sheer, two guns on the he after edge, a pole must top the must, one low funnel	1. At 2015 hours on 5 June, two naval vessels and one tug were on a northerly course in a position off Cape Danilov. The larger naval vessel was towing the smaller one; the tug followed behind. The larger naval vessel was about 225-250 feet long, with a raked bow and stern without sheer, two guns on the forecastle, bridge with a break in the deck at the after edge, a pole must with a yard up on the bridge, Decca-like radar atop the must, one low funnel close to the bridge, and a cruiser stern. The smaller naval vessel was about 150 feet long with a very slightly elevated forecastle with break in the deck at the bridge, one gun on the forecastle, a pole must with yard just aft of the bridge, one low rectangular funnel three or four meters abaft the mast, one crane on each side of the stern, and a cruiser stern. At 2240 hours GMT on 4 June, a naval vessel of the same type as the larger of the two described above At 2030 hours GMT on 5 June, 12 naval vessels were on a northerly course at Cape Danilov. Eight of the vessels were of the same type as the larger of those described above. Four of the vessels were of the same type as the larger of the submarine was at a great distance off Cape Orlov on a south-southeast course at a speed of about 15 knots. The foundary of the same type as the small one on 5 June a surfaced submarine was at a great distance off Cape Orlov on a south-southeast course.
1. At 2015 hours on 5 June, two naval vessels and one tug were on a northerly course in a position off Cape Danilov. The larger naval vessel was towing the smaller one; the tug followed behind. The larger naval vessel was about 225-250 feet long, with a valued behind.	ne tug were on a northerly er naval vessel was towing arger naval vessel was about thout sheer, two guns on the he after edge, a pole mast top the mast, one low funnel	1. At 2015 hours on 5 June, two naval vessels and one tug were on a northerly course in a position off Cape Danilov. The larger naval vessel was towing the smaller one; the tug followed behind. The larger naval vessel was about 225-250 feet long, with a raked bow and stern without sheer, two guns on the forecastle, bridge with a break in the deck at the after edge, a pole must with a yard up on the bridge, Decca-like radar atop the must, one low funnel close to the bridge, and a cruiser stern. The smaller naval vessel was about 150 feet long with a very slightly elevated forecastle with break in the deck at the bridge, one gun on the forecastle, a pole must with yard just aft of the bridge, one low rectangular funnel three or four meters abaft the mast, one crane on each side of the stern, and a cruiser stern. At 2240 hours GMT on 4 June, a naval vessel of the same type as the larger of the two described above At 2030 hours GMT on 5 June, 12 naval vessels were on a northerly course at Cape Danilov. Eight of the vessels were of the same type as the larger of those described above. Four of the vessels were of the same type as the larger of the submarine was at a great distance off Cape Orlov on a south-southeast course at a speed of about 15 knots. The foundary of the same type as the small one on 5 June a surfaced submarine was at a great distance off Cape Orlov on a south-southeast course.	- the smaller one; the tug followed behind. The larger naval vessel was towing 225-250 feet long, with a whole behind. The larger naval vessel was about	ne tug were on a northerly er naval vessel was towing arger naval vessel was about thout sheer, two guns on the he after edge, a pole mast top the mast, one low funnel	1. At 2015 hours on 5 June, two naval vessels and one tug were on a northerly course in a position off Cape Danilov. The larger naval vessel was towing the smaller one; the tug followed behind. The larger naval vessel was about 225-250 feet long, with a raked bow and stern without sheer, two guns on the forecastle, bridge with a break in the deek at the after edge, a pole mast with a yard up on the bridge, Decca-like radar atop the mast, one low funnel close to the bridge, and a cruiser stern. The smaller naval vessel was about 150 feet long with a very slightly elsevated forecastle with break in the deek at the bridge, one gun on the forecastle, a pole mast with yard just aft of the bridge, one low rectangular funnel three or four meters abaft the mast, one crane on each side of the stern, and a cruiser stern. At 2240 hours GMT on 4 June, a naval vessel of the same type as the larger of the two described above. Was sighted at Kharlov Island on a 280° course. At 2030 hours GMT on 5 June, 12 naval vessels were on a northerly course at Cape Danilov. Eight of the vessels were of the same type as the larger of those described above. Four of the vessels were of the same type as the small one described above. Four of the vessels were of the same type as the small one on 5 June a surfaced submarine was at a great distance off Cape Orlov on a south-southeast course at a speed of about 15 knots.	, the smaller one; the tug followed behind. The larger naval vessel was towing 225-250 feet long, with a ward behind. The larger naval vessel was about	er naval vessel was towing arger naval vessel was about thout sheer, two guns on the he after edge, a pole mast top the mast, one low funnel	the smaller one; the tug followed behind. The larger naval vessel was about 225-250 feet long, with a raked bow and stern without sheer, two guns on the forecastle, bridge with a break in the deck at the after edge, a pole mast with a yard up on the bridge, Decca-like radar atop the mast, one low funnel close to the bridge, and a cruiser stern. The smaller naval vessel was about 150 feet long with a very slightly elevated forecastle with break in the deck at the bridge, one gun on the forecastle, a pole mast with yard just aft of the bridge, one low rectangular funnel three or four meters abaft the mast, one crane on each side of the stern, and a cruiser stern. At 2240 hours GMT on 4 June, a naval vessel of the same type as the larger of the two described above At 2030 hours GMT on 5 June, 12 naval vessels were on a northerly course at Cape Danilov. Eight of the vessels were of the same type as the larger of those described above. Four of the vessels were of the same type as the small one described above On 5 June a surfaced submarine was at a great distance off Cape Orlov on a south-southeast course 25X1	·
the smaller one; the tug followed behind. The larger naval vessel was towing 225-250 feet long, with a waked behind. The larger naval vessel was about	er naval vessel was towing arger naval vessel was about thout sheer, two guns on the he after edge, a pole mast top the mast, one low funnel	the smaller one; the tug followed behind. The larger naval vessel was about 225-250 feet long, with a raked bow and stern without sheer, two guns on the forecastle, bridge with a break in the deck at the after edge, a pole mast with a yard up on the bridge, Decca-like radar atop the mast, one low funnel close to the bridge, and a cruiser stern. The smaller naval vessel was about 150 feet long with a very slightly elevated forecastle with break in the deck at the bridge, one gun on the forecastle, a pole mast with yard just aft of the bridge, one low rectangular funnel three or four meters abaft the mast, one crane on each side of the stern, and a cruiser stern. At 2240 hours GMT on 4 June, a naval vessel of the same type as the larger of the two described above At 2030 hours GMT on 5 June, 12 naval vessels were on a northerly course at Cape Danilov. Eight of the vessels were of the same type as the larger of those described above. Four of the vessels were of the same type as the small one described above On 5 June a surfaced submarine was at a great distance off Cape Orlov on a south-southeast course 25X1
the smaller one; the tug followed behind. The larger naval vessel was towing 225-250 feet long, with a wared behind. The larger naval vessel was about	er naval vessel was towing arger naval vessel was about thout sheer, two guns on the he after edge, a pole mast top the mast, one low funnel	the smaller one; the tug followed behind. The larger naval vessel was about 225-250 feet long, with a raked bow and stern without sheer, two guns on the forecastle, bridge with a break in the deck at the after edge, a pole mast with a yard up on the bridge, Decca-like radar atop the mast, one low funnel close to the bridge, and a cruiser stern. The smaller naval vessel was about 150 feet long with a very slightly elevated forecastle with break in the deck at the bridge, one gun on the forecastle, a pole mast with yard just aft of the bridge, one low rectangular funnel three or four meters abaft the mast, one crane on each side of the stern, and a cruiser stern. At 2240 hours GMT on 4 June, a naval vessel of the same type as the larger of the two described above At 2030 hours GMT on 5 June, 12 naval vessels were on a northerly course at Cape Danilov. Eight of the vessels were of the same type as the larger of those described above. Four of the vessels were of the same type as the small one described above On 5 June a surfaced submarine was at a great distance off Cape Orlov on a south-southeast course 25X1
the smaller one; the tug followed behind. The larger naval vessel was towing 225-250 feet long, with a warred behind. The larger naval vessel was about	er naval vessel was towing arger naval vessel was about thout sheer, two guns on the he after edge, a pole must top the mast, one low funnel	the smaller one; the tug followed behind. The larger naval vessel was about 225-250 feet long, with a raked bow and stern without sheer, two guns on the forecastle, bridge with a break in the deck at the after edge, a pole mast with a yard up on the bridge, Decca-like radar atop the mast, one low funnel close to the bridge, and a cruiser stern. The smaller naval vessel was about 150 feet long with a very slightly elevated forecastle with break in the deck at the bridge, one gun on the forecastle, a pole mast with yard just aft of the bridge, one low rectangular funnel three or four meters abaft the mast, one crane on each side of the stern, and a cruiser stern. At 2240 hours GMT on 4 June, a naval vessel of the same type as the larger of the two described above. At 2030 hours GMT on 5 June, 12 naval vessels were on a northerly course at Cape Danilov. Eight of the vessels were of the same type as the larger of those described above. Four of the vessels were of the same type as the small one on 5 June a surfaced submarine was at a great distance off Cape Orlov on a south-southeast course at a speed of about 15 knots. The smaller naval vessels were on a northerly course at 25X1	1
225-250 feet long, with a wheel has all in larger naval vessel was about	arger naval vessel was about thout sheer, two guns on the he after edge, a pole mast top the mast, one low funnel	225-250 feet long, with a raked bow and stern without sheer, two guns on the forecastle, bridge with a break in the deck at the after edge, a pole mast with a yard up on the bridge, Decca-like radar atop the mast, one low funnel close to the bridge, and a cruiser stern. The smaller naval vessel was about 150 feet long with a very slightly elevated forecastle with break in the deck at the bridge, one gun on the forecastle, a pole mast with yard just aft of the bridge, one low rectangular funnel three or four meters abaft the mast, one crane on each side of the stern, and a cruiser stern. At 2240 hours GMT on 4 June, a naval vessel of the same type as the larger of the two described above At 2030 hours GMT on 5 June, 12 naval vessels were on a northerly course at Cape Danilov. Eight of the vessels were of the same type as the larger of those described above. Four of the vessels were of the same type as the small one described above Submarine was at a great distance off Cape Orlov on a south-southeast course 25X1
	ne after edge, a pole mast top the mast, one low funnel	with a yard up on the bridge, Decca-like radar atop the mast, one low funnel close to the bridge, and a cruiser stern. The smaller naval vessel was about 150 feet long with a very slightly elevated forecastle with break in the deck at the bridge, one gun on the forecastle, a pole mast with yard just aft of the bridge, one low rectangular funnel three or four meters abaft the mast, one crane on each side of the stern, and a cruiser stern. At 2240 hours GMT on 4 June, a naval vessel of the same type as the larger of the two described above. At 2030 hours GMT on 5 June, 12 naval vessels were on a northerly course at Cape Danilov. Eight of the vessels were of the same type as the larger of those described above. Four of the vessels were of the same type as the small one 25X1 described above submarine was at a great distance off Cape Orlov on a south-southeast course 25X1	ut forecastle, bridge with a break in the dack at the after edge a role	top the mast, one low funnel	close to the bridge, and a cruiser stern. The smaller naval vessel was about 150 feet long with a very slightly elevated forecastle with break in the deck at the bridge, one gum on the forecastle, a pole mast with yard just aft of the bridge, one low rectangular funnel three or four meters abaft the mast, one crane on each side of the stern, and a cruiser stern. At 2240 hours GMT on 4 June, a naval vessel of the same type as the larger of the two described above At 2030 hours GMT on 5 June, 12 naval vessels were on a northerly course at Cape Danilov. Eight of the vessels were of the same type as the larger of those described above. Four of the vessels were of the same type as the small one described above Submarine was at a great distance off Cape Orlov on a south-southeast course 25X1	he .
with a yard up on the bridge, Decca-like radar atop the mast, one low funnel		150 feet long with a very slightly elevated forecastle with break in the deck at the bridge, one gum on the forecastle, a pole mast with yard just aft of the bridge, one low rectangular funnel three or four meters abaft the mast, one crane on each side of the stern, and a cruiser stern. At 2240 hours GMT on 4 June, a naval vessel of the same type as the larger of the two described above At 2030 hours GMT on 5 June, 12 naval vessels were on a northerly course at Cape Danilov. Eight of the vessels were of the same type as the larger of those described above. Four of the vessels were of the same type as the small one described above Submarine was at a great distance off Cape Orlov on a south-southeast course 25X1	el
150 feet long with a vary slightly sleen. The smaller naval vessel was about	maller naval vessel was about	at the bridge, one gum on the forecastle, a pole mast with yard just aft of the bridge, one low rectangular funnel three or four meters abaft the mast, one crane on each side of the stern, and a cruiser stern. At 2240 hours GMT on 4 June, a naval vessel of the same type as the larger of the two described above At 2030 hours GMT on 5 June, 12 naval vessels were on a northerly course at Cape Danilov. Eight of the vessels were of the same type as the larger of those described above. 22 25 25 25 25 25 25 25 25 2	out at the bridge, one gun on the forecastle, a pole must with break in the deck	mat with word that are	one crane on each side of the stern, and a cruiser stern. At 2240 hours GMT on 4 June, a naval vessel of the same type as the larger of the two described above. At 2030 hours GMT on 5 June, 12 naval vessels were on a northerly course at Cape Danilov. Eight of the vessels were of the same type as the larger of those described above. Four of the vessels were of the same type as the small one described above on 5 June a surfaced submarine was at a great distance off Cape Orlov on a south-southeast course at a speed of about 15 knots. The formed of the same type as the small one 25X1	ek ·
the bridge, one low rectangular funnel three or four meters about the most		on 4 June, a naval vessel of the same type as the larger of the two described above At 2030 hours GMT on 5 June, 12 naval vessels were on a northerly course at Cape Danilov. Eight of the vessels were of the same type as the larger of those described above. Four of the vessels were of the same type as the small one described above Submarine was at a great distance off Cape Orlov on a south-southeast course at a speed of about 15 knots. The forested by the same type as the small one 25X1	•
OHO CAGNE OU GECH BIDE OF The gram and a sundant	Cour meters abaft the mast	above was sighted at Kharlov Island on a 280° course. At 2030 hours GMT on 5 June, 12 naval vessels were on a northerly course at cape Danilov. Eight of the vessels were of the same type as the larger of those described above. Four of the vessels were of the same type as the small one on 5 June a surfaced submarine was at a great distance off Cape Orlov on a south-southeast course 25X1	C on 4 June, a naval vessel of the same chalser stern. At 2240 hours GMT	our meters abart the mast,	Cape Danilov. Eight of the vessels were of the same type as the larger of those described above. Four of the vessels were of the same type as the small one described above on 5 June a surfaced at a speed of about 15 knots. The foundation of Cape Orlov on a south-southeast course 25X1	ped '2
above the two described	er stern. At 2240 hours GMT clarger of the two described	those described above. Four of the vessels were of the same type as the small one described above submarine was at a great distance off Cape Orlov on a south-southeast course 25X1 25X1	ie.
above was sighted at Kharlov Island on a 280° course.	er stern. At 2240 hours GMT c larger of the two described clov Island on a 280° course.	Four of the vessels were of the same type as the small one described above submarine was at a great distance off Cape Orlov on a south-southeast course at a speed of about 15 knots. The forestep in the same type as the small one 25X1	≦lo
At 2030 hours GMT on 5 June, 12 naval vessels were on a northerly course at	er stern. At 2240 hours GMT c larger of the two described clov Island on a 280° course.	submarine was at a great distance off Cape Orlov on a south-southeast course at a speed of about 15 knots. The formed of the course 25X1	2
At 2030 hours GMT on 5 June, 12 naval vessels were on a northerly course at those described above. Four of the vessels were of the same type as the larger of the vessels were of the same type as the larger of the vessels were of the same type as the larger of the vessels were of the same type as the larger of the vessels were of the same type as the larger of the vessels were of the same type as the larger of the vessels were of the same type as the larger of the vessels were of the same type as the larger of the vessels were of the same type as the larger of the two described to the two d	er stern. At 2240 hours GMT clarger of the two described clov Island on a 280° course. The course at the larger of the larger of the larger of the two described clov Island on a 280° course.	at a speed of about 15 knots who seemed only on a south-southeast course 25X1 above At 2030 hours GMT on 5 June, 12 naval vessels were on a northerly course at those described above. Four of the vessels were of the same type as the larger of described above.	er stern. At 2240 hours GMT clarger of the two described clov Island on a 280° course. The course at the type as the larger of the type as the small one 25X1	of the conning tower; the after deck was about four times the length above At 2030 hours CMT on 5 June, 12 naval vessels were on a northerly course at Cape Danilov. Eight of the vessels were of the same type as the larger of those described above. Four of the vessels were of the same type as the small one described above. On 5 June a surfaced	r stern. At 2240 hours GMT elarger of the two described rlov Island on a 280° course. e on a northerly course at tame type as the larger of the type as the small one On 5 June a surfaced	towers the length of the
At 2030 hours GMT on 5 June, 12 naval vessels were on a northerly course at Cape Danilov. Eight of the vessels were of the same type as the larger of those described above. Four of the vessels were of the same type as the small one on 5 June a surfaced at a speed of about 15 knots. The formed on a south-southeast course	r stern. At 2240 hours GMT elarger of the two described clov Island on a 280° course. e on a northerly course at tame type as the larger of 25 25 25 25 25 25 25 25 25 25 25 25 25	ACMET.	e , 25X1
the bridge, one low rectangular female, a pole must with yard just aft of	most with smad treat and an	on 4 June, a naval vessel of the same type as the larger of the two described above At 2030 hours GMT on 5 June, 12 naval vessels were on a northerly course at Cape Danilov. Eight of the vessels were of the same type as the larger of those described above. Four of the vessels were of the same type as the small one described above Submarine was at a great distance off Cape Orlov on a south-southeast course at a speed of about 15 knots. The forested by the same type as the small one 25X1	?
one crane on each side of the starm and a refer about the mast,	Parm makes yard just art or	above was sighted at Kharlov Island on a 280° course. At 2030 hours GMT on 5 June, 12 naval vessels were on a northerly course at those described above. Four of the vessels were of the same type as the small one described above on 5 June a surfaced submarine was at a great distance off Cape Orlov on a south-southeast course 25X1° at a speed of about 15 knots. The forested by the larger of the two described 20 course. 2 25X1° at 280° course	,
1 - The sould be the state of t	our meters abart the mast,	At 2030 hours GMT on 5 June, 12 naval vessels were on a northerly course at Cape Danilov. Eight of the vessels were of the same type as the larger of those described above. Four of the vessels were of the same type as the small one on 5 June a surfaced at a speed of about 15 knots. The foundation of the vessels were of the same type as the small one on 5 June a surfaced at a speed of about 15 knots. The foundation of the vessels were of 25X1	٠
type as the larger of the two december	er stern. At 2240 hours GMT	Cape Danilov. Eight of the vessels were of the same type as the larger of those described above. Four of the vessels were of the same type as the small one described above on 5 June a surfaced at a speed of about 15 knots. The foundation of Cape Orlov on a south-southeast course 25X1
above the two described	er stern. At 2240 hours GMT c larger of the two described	those described above. Four of the vessels were of the same type as the small one described above submarine was at a great distance off Cape Orlov on a south-southeast course 25X1 25X1
above was sighted at Kharlov Island on a 280° course.	er stern. At 2240 hours GMT e larger of the two described clov Island on a 280° course.	Four of the vessels were of the same type as the small one described above submarine was at a great distance off Cape Orlov on a south-southeast course at a speed of about 15 knots. The forestep in the same type as the small one 25X1	. . * .
At 2030 hours GMT on 5 June, 12 naval a vessels were on a northerly course at	er stern. At 2240 hours GMT e larger of the two described clov Island on a 280° course.	described above submarine was at a great distance off Cape Orlov on a south-southeast course 25X1
At 2030 hours GMT on 5 June, 12 naval a vessels were on a northerly course at	er stern. At 2240 hours GMT c larger of the two described clov Island on a 280° course.	submarine was at a great distance off Cape Orlov on a south-southeast course 25X1	- above was sighted at Kharlov Island on a 280° course. At 2030 hours GMT on 5 June, 12 naval vessels were on a northerly course at cape Danilov. Eight of the vessels were of the same type as the larger of the vessels were of the same type as the larger of the vessels were of the same type as the larger of the vessels were of the same type as the larger of the vessels were of the same type as the larger of the vessels were of the same type as the larger of the vessels were of the same type as the larger of the vessels were of the same type as the larger of the two described to the two descri	er stern. At 2240 hours GMT elarger of the two described clov Island on a 280° course. The course at the larger of the larger of the larger of the two described clov Island on a 280° course. The course at the larger of the lar	at a speed of about 15 kmgts. The formation of a south-southeast course 25X1
above was sighted at Kharlov Island on a 280° course. At 2030 hours CMT on 5 June, 12 naval vessels were on a northerly course at cape Danilov. Eight of the vessels were of the same type as the larger of those described above. Four of the vessels were of the same type as the small one	er stern. At 2240 hours GMT elarger of the two described elov Island on a 280° course. e on a northerly course at tame type as the larger of 25 me type as the small one 25 25	at a speed of about 15 knots. The formation of a south-southeast course 25X1
above was sighted at Kharlov Island on a 280° course. At 2030 hours CMT on 5 June, 12 naval vessels were on a northerly course at cape Danilov. Eight of the vessels were of the same type as the larger of those described above. Four of the vessels were of the same type as the small one	er stern. At 2240 hours GMT clarger of the two described clov Island on a 280° course. The course at the type as the larger of the type as the small one 25X1	of the conning tower; the after deck was about four times the length above was sighted at Kharlov Island on a 280° course. At 2030 hours CMT on 5 June, 12 naval vessels were on a northerly course at Cape Danilov. Eight of the vessels were of the same type as the larger of those described above. Four of the vessels were of the same type as the small one described above Submarine was at a great distance off Course Course.	r stern. At 2240 hours GMT elarger of the two described rlov Island on a 280° course. e on a northerly course at tame type as the larger of the type as the small one On 5 June a surfaced	of the conning tower; the after deck was about four times the length of the above was sighted at Kharlov Island on a 280° course. At 2030 hours CMT on 5 June, 12 naval vessels were on a northerly course at Cape Danilov. Eight of the vessels were of the same type as the larger of those described above. Four of the vessels were of the same type as the small one on 5 June a surfaced at a speed of about 15 kmgts. The foundation of the vessels were of a south-southeast course	r stern. At 2240 hours GMT elarger of the two described clov Island on a 280° course. e on a northerly course at tame type as the larger of 25 25 25 25 25 25 25 25 25 25 25 25 25	tower tower was about rour times the length of the	e , 25X1
above was sighted at Kharlov Island on a 280° course. At 2030 hours CMT on 5 June, 12 naval vessels were on a northerly course at Cape Danilov. Eight of the vessels were of the same type as the larger of those described above. Four of the vessels were of the same type as the small one on 5 June a surfaced at a speed of about 15 kmgts. The foundation of the vessels were of a south-southeast course	r stern. At 2240 hours GMT elarger of the two described clov Island on a 280° course. e on a northerly course at tame type as the larger of 25 25 25 25 25 25 25 25 25 25 25 25 25	ACMET.	e , 25X1
above At 2030 hours CMT on 5 June, 12 naval vessels were on a northerly course at Cape Danilov. Eight of the vessels were of the same type as the larger of those described above. Four of the vessels were of the same type as the small one described above. On 5 June a surfaced	r stern. At 2240 hours GMT elarger of the two described clov Island on a 280° course. e on a northerly course at tame type as the larger of 25 25 25 25 25 25 25 25 25 25 25 25 25		e , 25X1
above At 2030 hours GMT on 5 June, 12 naval vessels were on a northerly course. Cape Danilov. Eight of the vessels were of the same type as the larger of those described above. Four of the vessels were of the same type as the small one on 5 June a surfaced at a speed of about 15 knots. The foredeck was about three times the length of the tower. 2. At 2240 GMT on 17 June, a flying best similar to see the same type as the small one of the countries the length of the	r stern. At 2240 hours GMT larger of the two described lov Island on a 280° course. The course at the larger of me type as the small one On 5 June a surfaced on a south-southeast course bout three times the length our times the length of the	2. At 2240 GMT on 17 June, a flying boot similar to a second	e , 25X1
above At 2030 hours GMT on 5 June, 12 naval vessels were on a northerly course. Cape Danilov. Eight of the vessels were of the same type as the larger of those described above. Four of the vessels were of the same type as the small one on 5 June a surfaced at a speed of about 15 knots. The foredeck was about three times the length of the tower. 2. At 2240 GMT on 17 June, a flying best similar tower.	r stern. At 2240 hours GMT larger of the two described lov Island on a 280° course. The course at the larger of me type as the small one On 5 June a surfaced on a south-southeast course bout three times the length our times the length of the	2. At 2240 CMT on 17 June, a flying boat similar to a Catalina was at Kildin	e , 25X1
At 2030 hours GMT on 5 June, 12 naval vessels were on a northerly course at Cape Danilov. Eight of the vessels were of the same type as the larger of those described above. Four of the vessels were of the same type as the small one described above on 5 June a surfaced submarine was at a great distance off Cape Orlov on a south-southeast course of the conning tower; the after deck was about three times the length of the tower. 2. At 2240 GMT on 17 June, a flying boat similar to a Catalina was at Kildin Island. It was observed from the rear of the rear of the rear of the rear of the same type as the small one on 5 June a surfaced at a speed of about 15 knots. The foredeck was about three times the length of the	r stern. At 2240 hours GMT larger of the two described lov Island on a 280° course. The course at the larger of me type as the small one On 5 June a surfaced on a south-southeast course bout three times the length our times the length of the a Catalina was at Kildin		e , 25X1
At 2030 hours GMT on 5 June, 12 naval vessels were on a northerly course at Cape Danilov. Eight of the vessels were of the same type as the larger of those described above. Four of the vessels were of the same type as the small one on 5 June a surfaced submarine was at a great distance off Cape Orlov on a south-southeast course of the conning tower; the after deck was about four times the length of the tower.	r stern. At 2240 hours GMT larger of the two described lov Island on a 280° course. The course at the larger of me type as the small one On 5 June a surfaced on a south-southeast course bout three times the length our times the length of the a Catalina was at Kildin		e , 25X1
above At 2030 hours GMT on 5 June, 12 naval vessels were on a northerly course. Cape Danilov. Eight of the vessels were of the same type as the larger of those described above. Four of the vessels were of the same type as the small one on 5 June a surfaced submarine was at a great distance off Cape Orlov on a south-southeast course of the conning tower; the after deck was about four times the length of the tower. 2. At 2240 GMT on 17 June, a flying boat similar to a Catalina was at Kildin Island. It was observed from the rear of the rear of the two described at Kildin in the rear of the same type as the two described at a speed of about 15 knots. The foredeck was about three times the length of the	r stern. At 2240 hours GMT larger of the two described lov Island on a 280° course. The contained on a 280° course at the larger of me type as the small one On 5 June a surfaced on a south-southeast course bout three times the length of the a Catalina was at Kildin		e , 25X1
At 2030 hours CMT on 5 June, 12 naval vessels were on a northerly course. Cape Danilov. Eight of the vessels were of the same type as the larger of those described above. Four of the vessels were of the same type as the small one described above Submarine was at a great distance off Cape Orlov on a south-southeast course at a speed of about 15 knots. The foredeck was about three times the length of the conning tower; the after deck was about four times the length of the land. It was observed from the rear of the rear of the rear of the same type as the two described at a speed of about 15 knots. The foredeck was about three times the length of the tower.	r stern. At 2240 hours GMT r stern. At 2240 hours GMT larger of the two described rlov Island on a 280° course. The cone is northerly course at a see type as the larger of me type as the small one On 5 June a surfaced on a south-southeast course bout three times the length ur times the length of the a Catalina was at Kildin s first went straight out again.	from the fuselage, then broke upward, and then out again.	e , 25X1
At 2030 hours GMT on 5 June, 12 naval vessels were on a northerly course at Cape Danilov. Eight of the vessels were of the same type as the larger of those described above. Four of the vessels were of the same type as the small one on 5 June a surfaced submarine was at a great distance off Cape Orlov on a south-southeast course at a speed of about 15 knots. The foredeck was about three times the length of the conning tower; the after deck was about four times the length of the tower. 2. At 2240 GMT on 17 June, a flying boat similar to a Catalina was at Kildin Island. It was observed from the rear. The wings first went straight out from the fuselage, then broke upward, and then out again.	r stern. At 2240 hours GMT r stern. At 2240 hours GMT clarger of the two described clov Island on a 280° course. The contained on a 280° course the contained on a 280° course the contained on a 280° course and type as the small one On 5 June a surfaced on a south-southeast course bout three times the length tur times the length of the a Catalina was at Kildin a first went straight out again.	from the fuselage, then broke upward, and then out again. NODEX	e , 25X1
At 2030 hours GMT on 5 June, 12 naval vessels were on a northerly course at Cape Danilov. Eight of the vessels were of the same type as the larger of those described above. Four of the vessels were of the same type as the small one on 5 June a surfaced submarine was at a great distance off Cape Orlov on a south-southeast course at a speed of about 15 knots. The foredeck was about three times the length of the conning tower; the after deck was about four times the length of the tower. 2. At 2240 GMT on 17 June, a flying boat similar to a Catalina was at Kildin Island. It was observed from the rear. The wings first went straight out from the fuselage, then broke upward, and then out again.	r stern. At 2240 hours GMT r stern. At 2240 hours GMT clarger of the two described clov Island on a 280° course. The contained on a 280° course the contained on a 280° course the contained on a 280° course and type as the small one On 5 June a surfaced on a south-southeast course bout three times the length tur times the length of the a Catalina was at Kildin a first went straight out again.	from the fuselage, then broke upward, and then out again. NODEX	e , 25X1
At 2030 hours GMT on 5 June, 12 naval vessels were on a northerly course at Cape Danilov. Eight of the vessels were of the same type as the larger of those described above. Four of the vessels were of the same type as the small one on 5 June a surfaced submarine was at a great distance off Cape Orlov on a south-southeast course at a speed of about 15 knots. The foredeck was about three times the length of the conning tower; the after deck was about four times the length of the tower. 2. At 2240 GMT on 17 June, a flying boat similar to a Catalina was at Kildin Island. It was observed from the rear. The wings first went straight out from the fuselage, then broke upward, and then out again.	r stern. At 2240 hours GMT r stern. At 2240 hours GMT r larger of the two described rlov Island on a 280° course. re on a northerly course at ame type as the small one On 5 June a surfaced on a south-southeast course bout three times the length ur times the length of the a Catalina was at Kildin s first went straight out again. NODEX	from the fuselage, then broke upward, and then out again. NODEX S-E-C-R-E-T	e 25X1
At 2030 hours GMT on 5 June, 12 naval vessels were on a northerly course at Cape Danilov. Eight of the vessels were of the same type as the larger of those described above. Four of the vessels were of the same type as the small one on 5 June a surfaced submarine was at a great distance off Cape Orlov on a south-southeast course at a speed of about 15 knots. The foredeck was about three times the length of the conning tower; the after deck was about four times the length of the tower. 2. At 2240 GMT on 17 June, a flying boat similar to a Catalina was at Kildin Island. It was observed from the rear. The wings first went straight out from the fuselage, then broke upward, and then out again.	r stern. At 2240 hours GMT r stern. At 2240 hours GMT clarger of the two described clov Island on a 280° course. The contraction of a northerly course at the larger of me type as the small one On 5 June a surfaced on a south-southeast course bout three times the length ur times the length of the a Catalina was at Kildin s first went straight out again.	from the fuselage, then broke upward, and then out again. NODEX S-E-C-R-E-T	e 25X1 with a yard up on the bridge, Decca-like radar atop the mast, one low funne close to the bridge, and a cruiser stern. The smaller naval vessel was about 150 feet long with a very slightly elevated forecastle with break in the de- at the bridge, one gun on the forecastle, a pole mast with yard just aft of the bridge, one low rectangular funnel three or four meters abaft the mast, one crane on each side of the returned three or four meters abaft the mast,	mailer naval vessel was aborantle with break in the de	submarine was at a great distance off Cape Orlov on a south-southeast cours

STATE	x	ARMY	¥	NAVY	 AIR		FBI	AEC
					 	I			L
L					 	(Note	: Washing	ten distribution	indicate	d by "X"; Field di	stribution by "#".)